

A symposium on Contextualizing abortion access in India - Global changes and Indian realities

September 28th and 30th

In the light of the changing global scenario and the limited understanding of the legal status of abortions within India, we need to contribute to the discourse on abortions within the country. With this in mind, we propose a symposium which brings together public health professionals and sexual and reproductive health researchers and activists to discuss the issue.

This symposium aims to bring together the changing global contexts, national laws and local interpretations.
